

50ème session du Conseil des droits de l'homme

Point 3. Dialogue interactif avec l'expert indépendant sur la violence et la discrimination fondées sur l'orientation sexuelle et l'identité de genre

Les OSC exhortent le Conseil des droits de l'homme à renouveler le mandat de l'Expert indépendant sur la violence et la discrimination fondées sur l'orientation sexuelle et l'identité de genre lors de sa 50ème session. #RenewIESOGI.

Dans toutes les régions du monde, la violence et la discrimination généralisées, graves et systématiques fondées sur l'orientation sexuelle et/ou l'identité de genre, réelles ou supposées, persistent.

Meurtres et exécutions extrajudiciaires; torture, viols et violences sexuelles; disparitions forcées; déplacements forcés; criminalisation; détentions arbitraires ; chantage et extorsion; violence et harcèlement policiers; intimidation; stigmatisation; discours de haine; campagnes de désinformation ; déni de l'identité sexuelle que l'on s'est définie ; traitements médicaux forcés et/ou stérilisation forcée ; la répression des droits à la liberté d'expression, d'association et de réunion, de religion ou de croyance ; les attaques et les restrictions à l'encontre des défenseurs des droits de l'homme et des journalistes ; le déni de services et l'entrave à l'accès à la justice ; la discrimination dans tous les domaines de la vie, y compris l'emploi, la santé, le logement, l'éducation et les traditions culturelles ; et d'autres formes multiples et intersectionnelle de violence et de discrimination. Il s'agit de quelques violations des droits de l'homme et des abus auxquels sont confrontées les personnes ayant des orientations sexuelles et/ou des identités de genre différentes.

Cette situation catastrophique en matière de droits de l'homme a motivé des mesures importantes aux Nations unies, que nous célébrons, pour reconnaître et protéger les droits fondamentaux de ces personnes et communautés. En 2016, le Conseil des droits de l'homme a pris des mesures définitives pour lutter systématiquement contre ces abus, faire avancer les réformes positives et partager les meilleures pratiques - par des rapports réguliers, dialogue et engagement constructifs - et a créé un expert indépendant sur la protection contre la violence et la discrimination fondées sur l'orientation sexuelle et l'identité de genre (OSIG).

En 2019, le renouvellement de ce mandat a été soutenu par plus de 50 États de toutes les régions du globe et par 1,314 organisations de 174 États et territoires. Ce soutien croissant est la preuve de l'importance cruciale de ce mandat et de son travail de soutien aux personnes ayant des orientations sexuelles et/ou des identités de genre diverses, ainsi qu'à ceux qui défendent leurs droits, tant dans les enceintes internationales des droits de l'homme que sur le terrain.

Au cours des 6 dernières années, les deux titulaires de mandat ont mené une documentation approfondie sur la discrimination et la violence fondées sur l'OSIG par le biais de rapports et de déclarations ; ils ont envoyé plus de 100 communications documentant les allégations de telles violations dans toutes les régions ; ils ont effectué 5 visites de pays ; ils ont identifié les causes profondes ; et ils ont abordé la violence et la discrimination auxquelles sont confrontés des groupes spécifiques, notamment les personnes lesbiennes, bissexuelles, transgenres et de genre différent.

Le mandat a également permis de saluer les progrès et d'identifier les meilleures pratiques de toutes les régions du monde, notamment en matière de décriminalisation, de reconnaissance légale du genre, de lois anti-discrimination et de lois sur les crimes haineux. Tout en engageant dans un dialogue constructif et en aidant les États à mettre en œuvre et à se conformer davantage au droit et aux normes internationales en matière de droits de l'homme, ainsi qu'en collaborant avec les mécanismes, agences, fonds et programmes des Nations unies et d'autres organes des systèmes internationaux et régionaux.

Malgré ces avancées positives, plus de 68 pays criminalisent encore aujourd'hui les relations sexuelles entre adultes consentants du même sexe, dont 11 juridictions appliquent encore la peine de mort, et plus de 10 pays criminalisent encore les diverses expressions et identités de genre, et les violations des droits de l'homme susmentionnées persistent. En plus, au moins 4042 personnes trans et de genre différent ont été déclarés assassinés entre le 1 janvier 2008 et le 30 septembre 2021. Avec de nombreux autres cas non déclarés, 2021 a été l'année la plus meurtrière pour les personnes trans et diversifiées en genre depuis le début de la collecte des données. Il est clair que ce mandat reste essentiel.

Une décision des membres du Conseil de renouveler ce mandat enverrait un message importante : la violence et la discrimination à l'encontre des personnes ayant des orientations sexuelles et/ou des identités de genre différentes ne peuvent être tolérées. Elle réaffirmerait qu'une attention spécifique, soutenue et systématique reste cruciale pour lutter contre ces violations des droits de l'homme et de veiller que les personnes LGBT soient effectivement libres et égales en dignité et en droits.

Nous, les 1117 ONG de 134 États et territoires du monde entier, demandons instamment à ce Conseil de veiller à ce que nous continuions à construire un monde où chacun peut vivre sans violence ni discrimination. Pour permettre à ce travail important et inachevé de se poursuivre, nous vous demandons instamment de renouveler le mandat de l'Expert indépendant sur la violence et la discrimination fondées sur l'orientation sexuelle et l'identité de genre.

Merci.
